

KaFetzou

Future Telling Practices: Creating Communities Within a Circle.

Hosted by: Silver Giannakidi

Project Information (EN)

Predicting Reflections

Rooted in a childhood memory of women gathered around a kitchen table, this project reactivates the tradition of Greek coffee cup reading as a practice of presence, care, and storytelling. At a time when algorithms claim to “interpret” coffee grounds, this work turns away from automation to revalue embodied ritual and intergenerational knowledge.

Through handmade tablecloths, sculpted clay fidgets, and the slow preparation of coffee, participants are invited into a shared space of reflection and conversation. The imprints in the cup become prompts for dialogue, not predictions, but openings to speak about grief, love, uncertainty, and hope.

This is not fortune-telling but a collective act of listening and connection, a quiet resistance to disconnection in today’s world.

Projectinformatie (NL)

Image List

Filename	Caption	Credit
image00007_1758287153.jpg	First Coffee Reading Gathering Setup
image00001_1758287258.jpg	Pop Up Coffee Reading at Residency For the People
image00003_1758287288.jpg	Ritual

The images above are included in the ZIP under /images.