

Re Project

Biodegradable products from beans, onions, and cardboard.

Hosted by: Damla Ertem

Project Information (EN)

Biodegradable Material Research Meets Social Awareness

Re Project combines material explorations with a sustainable business system that each person can adapt and run. Re is an open-source system; products, recipes, materials, and molds are accessible; they can also be customized. Re is a non-profit project, earning money turned back only to the producers.

Using Waste from the Season

The recipe is designed to be adaptable to different kitchens. The seasonal food menu decides the bio-material recipe. For the winter season, Re Project produced various types of beans, red onions, and cardboard waste.

After-Life Circle of the Re Products

After the biodegradable Re Products start to decompose, users can use them to feed stray dogs. The products can be added to compost to finish their after-life cycle.

Projectinformatie (NL)

Biodegradable Material Research Meets Social Awareness

Re Project combines material explorations with a sustainable business system that each person can adapt and run. Re is an open-source system; products, recipes, materials, and molds are accessible; they can also be customized. Re is a non-profit project, earning money turned back only to the producers.

Using Waste from the Season

The recipe is designed to be adaptable to different kitchens. The seasonal food menu decides the bio-material recipe. For the winter season, Re Project produced various types of beans, red onions, and cardboard waste.

After-Life Circle of the Re Products

After the biodegradable Re Products start to decompose, users can use them to feed stray dogs. The products can be added to compost to finish their after-life cycle.

Image List

Filename	Caption	Credit
1200x1700-product-family-min_1665955195.jpg	Re Project Product Family
after-life-1200x900_1665955247.jpg	After Life Use of Re Product
re-product-bag-with-ingredients-1200x900_1665955277.jpg	Re Product Bağ with Ingredient re-product-hasat-after-life-use-1200x900_1665955297.jpg	Re Product Hasat, After-life Use
re-product-hasat-after-life-use-1200x900_1665955333.jpg	Re Product Güneş with Ingredients

The images above are included in the ZIP under /images.